AMERICAN TOURISTS AT GRANADA VISIT OLD SHOW PLACE.

A PICNIC IN A PALACE

A Visit to a Gypsy Camp Closes the Visit in Spain—The Next Letter Will Be From Italy.

Granada, July 12, 1912.—At Alicante we had a lovely hotel with a balcony in front of our French windows and the sea just across the boulevard. We ate our meals outdoors on the sidewalk; in fact, under the portico. The hotels and restaurants build such porches and use the whole walk in summer. It is pleasant. You may have shoes blacked and purchase from peddlers while having a meal or some wine.

Everybody rested; at 3 we began again. The scenery had changed greatly. Outside of Alicante a few miles is a wonderful palm forest, where we purchased little baskets of dates dried. The trees extended for miles quite dense and in patches many more. They have a strange custom of tying the leaves up together, letting them remain so a year, then a priest blesses them and they are used for palm Sunday and put on the balconies or windows of the houses, where they are supposed to keep out illness and evil spirits.

We arrived at Mercia at 8 o'clock and I had a ride in a real Spanish carriage, the round top kind, really awfully cute—driver sits up in front and people on the sides. At Valencia we saw crowds coming in town in these—some very nice and suit cases on the steps out behind. The inspector stopped us to see if we were importing any foodstuffs. That is their specialty and dutiable. At another place they looked for vegetables. Each town is so different from every other.

The trip from Alicante here was from 8:30 a. m. to 11:20 p. m. Quite a trip for this country. We rode to one station, then changed cars, and in four hours changed again. Had an English engine part of the way, so made some speed. Traveled third part of the trip and had lots of fun. We all had to walk across a bridge they were a little uncertain of. What do you think of that? There is lots of real desert back to barren old hills along the way, but some nice grape patches. Almost every house had a pet pig tied by the neck to a tree. The pig was long of nose and limb and sharp of back. When there were little ones they were tied to the goat's leg or the mother's, which in turn was attached to a tree.

We arrived here at Granada so late. It was a delightful carriage ride of two miles from the depot up to the top of this old fortress hill, for we are within the walls of the old fortified Alhambra and only a step to the building (palace), while the summer palace is a mile up by a beautiful path. The grove of elms, planted by Charles V, is cut by wide, nicely paved roads and falls of mountain streams, public fountains and circular stone platform, with seats for pedestrians as they go down the many steps.

Above the great old gate up here, once the only entrance to the city, is carved a hand, and within the arch a key. The legend is that when that hand grasps the key the Alhambra will fall. We spent most of yesterday afternoon in the Alhambra palace, that is the artists did. The rest of us came away to think it over. I was a little disappointed because it is not a ruin. The government, with assistance of entrance fees, is repairing it, and so excellently is the work done you cannot tell the new and the old apart, as the weather beaten color is also reproduced. It is not large and built like the Moorish palaces we have seen. The wonderful rich cream tracery that covers all walls and filigree on the arches, the slender alabaster pillars which support the arches all look whole and new. The floor shows the wearing of many feet, and it is hard to realize the dark deeds that have stained the marbles of this fairy palace. Just imagine, if you can, walls covered with designs cut in plaster, each design different from its

Today we had the picnic in the summer palace I mentioned above. There are lovely cloisters and most beautiful views of the city below, barren hills beyond and the snow capped Sierra Nevada's beyond. This surely is an artist's paradise, and we run onto such places all through Spain.

This afternoon we are going to the gypsy camp across on the other hill to witness their dancing and see their caves. It will be interesting. They are over here every day—women, to sell us brass pieces, so beautiful and cheap they are. Many of our party have bought large brass bowls and jars.

We start for Gibraltar tomorrow morning, arrive at night, and catch the "Moltke" again for Naples on Tuesday, July 15, per schedule. Will write again on the boat to mail at Naples. We make our shortest stop there. Am sorry to leave this delightfully cool spot for "sunny Italy."

BOOHER IS NOMINEE

Democrats Nominated County Ticket Tuesday, Polling a Total of 2,124 Votes.

The primary election in Nodaway county Tuesday was a rather tame affair. The total Democratic vote was about two hundred short of the vote of two years ago, and so many of the Republicans took to the brush that they hardly figured in the election. Many threshing machines were running and many votes were lost on that account. The vote two years ago was 2,335, and this year 2,124.

On the Democratic ticket Cowherd carried the county by 256 votes, with Majors a close second. The congressional race was close in the county, Booher winning by 72 votes. Returns from the Fourth congressional district indicate that he has been renominated by about 600 votes, carrying Atchison, Holt, Nodaway, Andrew and Platte counties. Martin carried St. Joseph and Buchanan county by a majority of 1,290.

W. J. Skidmore gets the nomination for representative, Ed Wallace wins for sheriff, Ed Wolfert for treasurer and Floyd Westfall for judge of the south district. The following other candidates, having no opposition, were nominated: George Pat Wright for prosecuting attorney, J. E. Reese for surveyor, Wm. M. Wallis, Jr., for coroner, and John F. Roelofson for public administrator.

For lieutenant governor, W. R. Painter carried the county by a vote of 1,176 to 897 for Alex R. Boone.

Cornelius Roach's vote for secretary of state was 2,122.

John P. Gordon's vote for state auditor was 2,124.

For state treasurer, E. P. Deal carried the county by a vote of 1,984 to 869 for J. B. O'Meara.

For attorney general, Frank McAllister carried the county by a vote of 753 to 674 for John T. Barker, and 479 for Joseph T. Davis.

For railroad and warehouse commissioner the vote stood as follows: Rube Oglesby 766, James T. Bradshaw 740, Henry Forgey 294 and Albert S. Lehr 293.

For judge of division No. 1 of the supreme court the vote was Henry W. Bond 779, Charles B. Stark 659 and Perry S. Rader 477.

vote stood: Robert F. Walker 851, H. C. Timmonds 774, Charles B. Faris, 629, and Thomas J. Delaney 579.

For judge of the Kansas City court of appeals, F. H. Trimble 834, Scott J. Miller 583, and John G. Rich 539.

CRAIG NOMINATED BY NEARLY 500

Anderson Craig of this city was nominated by the Democrats as their candidate for state senator from this district over O. B. Hudson of Grant City. From reports received today the vote stood as follows:

Craig carried Nodaway county by 56 votes over Hudson.

Craig carried Gentry county by 150 votes, with two small precincts out.

Craig carried Atchison county by 399, with four small precincts out.

Hudson carried Worth county by 59 majority.

Craig is nominated by a majority of about 450 votes.

THE COUNTY COMMITTEE.

Dawson Elected in Polk Over J. F. Cook—To Meet Next Tuesday and Organize.

John M. Dawson won over James F. Cook for Democratic committeeman from Polk township in the primary Tuesday. He carried every precinct in the township, his majority being 134 over Cook.

From the other townships in the county, the following is reported as the members of the Democratic committee: Monroe, D. R. Baker; Nodaway, S. S. Webb; Atchison, Guy Clary; Union, J. W. Wiley; Washington, D. C. McKee; White Cloud, Ed Busby; Lincoln, E. M. Bailey; Grant, Dr. J. A. Larabee; Jefferson, J. A. Biley; Hopkins, J. F. Babb; Jackson, Fay Castee; Independence, Roy Fitzsimmons; Hughes, C. H. Talbott.

The county committee will meet in Maryville next Tuesday and organize.

HAS 10,000 PLURALITY

Painter Nominated For Lieutenant Governor, With the Attorney Generalship Race Very Close.

From returns over the state, Wm. S. Cowherd of Kansas City is 10,000 ahead of Elliott W. Major, and is, no doubt, the nominee of the Democratic party for governor. Cowherd carried St. Louis by 17,752 and Kansas City by 12,800, and also St. Joseph. Major carried from fifty to seventy-five counties throughout the state.

Painter was nominated by the Democrats for lieutenant governor, and the Barker-McAllister race is very close, with McAllister apparently in the lead. James T. Bradshaw is in the lead for railroad and warehouse commissioner. Henry Bond, for division No. 1 of the supreme court, H. C. Timmonds and R. F. Walker for the two judges of division No. 2 of the supreme court, are also nominated. F. H. Trimble is in the lead for judge of the Kansas City court of appeals.

John C. McKinley is the nominee of the Republicans for governor.

THE PASSING OF BEEF.
The extreme shortage of beef may pass and doubtless will pass. But beef will never again be the common meat that it once was.

Commercial bodies may resolute and legislatures may legislate, and agricultural societies may preach. The feastive beefsteak will never again reach the low level in price that it occupied twenty years ago; and the American public might as well accept
and prepare to act on that fact.

The reason is obvious. An acre of ground will produce more of almost any other meat than it will of beef.
Land has come to be worth something these days; has come, indeed, to be one considerable factor in the cost of production. That fact means that beef is high and will remain high.

Given free or cheap range, and beef
—of a sort—can be produced at low cost. This is what made the cattle business so popular when the west was first opened up; this, and the fact that the crop could walk to market.
But the free range is gone, and the cheap range is not so cheap as it was once.

But let us not despair altogether.
The beefsteak will not wholly vanish from our midst; and besides, the very cause which militates against the steer favors the chicken.

Intensive cultivation and large, nearly markets make chicken growing profitable, even at comparatively low prices. In a few years, perhaps, we shall substitute fried chicken and

BANKER FEARS BLACKMAILERS

IS IN DANGER.

Letter Demanding $4,500 is Answered, But Writer Escaped—Threatened Dynamite.

Harrisonville, Mo., Aug. 7.—Blood-hounds will be put on the trail of the author of a letter sent to Fred Coe, cashier of the Bank of Creighton, a small town in the southeast part of Cass county, threatening to "blow up" his house and kill him and his family, unless $4,500 was paid to the writer. Sheriff Hamilton is working on the case.

The letter was printed on ordinary writing paper with pen and ink and signed "White Cap." It directed that Coe place the money in an envelope and deposit it at a point eight miles

Coe followed the instructions of the writer, except that he put paper in the envelope. Alone, he placed the package in the designated spot, but several neighbors followed close behind. Despite the fact that Coe and his friends watched the place for several hours, "White Cap" got the package and made his escape.

Tracks were found later in a corn field showing the direction from which the "White Cap" had come and the direction in which he departed. The watchers followed these until they led to a road when the trail was lost.
Sheriff Hamilton believes it is too late for bloodhounds to pick up the trail.
In the meantime, Coe fears the writer of the letter may carry out his threat and a guard is maintained around his house constantly.

BROKE INTO HOUSE AFTER FOOD

Kansas Couple, Returning Home Late, Found Intruders—One Wounded
and Captured.

Wichita, Kan., Aug. 7.—Returning home at 9 o'clock Mrs. J. M. Robinson of southeast of Anthony, who went to the house while her husband unlatched the horses, was confronted by two men, who drew revolvers and ordered silence. Mrs. Robinson began screaming and ran from the house.

Her husband ran to her assistance and saw two men running. He armed himself and aroused the neighbors, who found the men in the cornfield.
They ran, but a discharge of shot from a gun buried itself in the legs of one of the men and he was captured. He gave his name as John Edwards, but refused his partner's name. The Robinsons missed nothing except food and Edwards says that is all he and his partner took.

celebrated her 102nd birthday anniversary on the 14th day of June last, passed away Wednesday morning at 3 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Donlin of Hopkins.

A brief service will be held at 11 o'clock Thursday morning at Mrs.
Donlin's home, when the body will be taken to Creston, Ia., where a funeral service will be held in the afternoon at the Presbyterian church in Creston, and burial there.

Grandma Harsh, as she was lovingly known for many years, had made her home in Hopkins with her daughter since her seventy-ninth birthday, having kept her own home previous to that time in Creston, in a little cottage near the home of her son, Senator J. B. Harsh. She refused to be dependent upon anyone, and required help up to the time she gave up housekeeping only when entertaining company.

She was a remarkable woman in every respect, and when her hundredth birthday anniversary was celebrated at her son's home in Creston, two years ago, it was made one of the most notable events that have occurred in that city, and no one at the celebration seemed to more enjoy the day than did the guest of honor, as she has ever been strong physically and keen and bright mentally.

She began to fail after her 102nd anniversary, which was also happily celebrated with her children, grandchil-
friends about her in her daughter's home, and it has been seen since that she was failing rapidly. Her death was caused by no disease, but was the gradual failing of every physical power.

Her death is truly mourned by the people of Hopkins, for hers was a sunny disposition. She gave healthful, strong friendship, and all who met her could not help but be inspired to clean, noble living, such as her life had been.

Harsh of Creston, Senator A. F. Harsh
of Lowell, Neb.; P. L. Harsh of Eugene, Ore., and Mrs. Mary Donlin of Hopkins.

Nancy McKee was born in Mercer county, Pennsylvania, June 14, 1810.
Moved to Washington county, Pen-sylvania, in 1814. Married there in 1833. Moved to Ohio in 1836. Husband died there. In 1849 she moved her family to Bureau county, Illinois, and to Afton, Ia., in 1860. Later they moved to Creston, Ia., where she lived for twenty-five years, keeping house until six years ago, when she came to Hopkins to live with her daughter, Mrs. Mary Donlin.

Early Returns Indicate Large Majority for T. R. Electors.

CURTIS-STUBBS FIGHT IS CLOSE

Bulletin.

The early returns from the primary indicated that the Roosevelt presidential electors had swept Kansas by as large a majority as was ever given any candidate in the state.

From every county came the reports during the night that the Roosevelt electors were in the lead and gaining at every county.

Stubbs Has Slight Lead.

The only apparently close fight in the Republican camp is between Curtis and Stubbs for United States senator. In the large cities the Curtis majority has been rolling up wonderfully, but as soon as the country precincts began to be heard from the Stubbs majority kept increasing until it easily overcame whatever gains Curtis had made.

Big Vote for Roosevelt.

The early indications show that the Roosevelt electors have been selected by upwards of 50,000 plurality and that the Progressive state ticket was gained by from 20,000 to 30,000 plurality.

Arthur Capper is the Republican nominee for governor over Frank Ryan, and his majority probably will be the highest of any of the candidates except the Roosevelt electors. Counties that beat Stubbs went to Capper and the Roosevelt electors and for the rest of the Progressive ticket.

Campbell-Gray Contest Close.

The returns are very incomplete on the congressional candidates, except in the eighth district, where Murdock has run away from Adams. Stuart is running ahead of Anthony in the first district, and the Campbell-Gray contest in the third is so close that the friends of both candidates are in doubt.

No returns were received from the seventh district except from Pratt, which gave Finlay a lead and from Reno which gave Hopkins the advantage. J. L. Brady appears to have been named in the Second district with John Crider a close second and Wright third.

Billard Leading Hodges.

The real surprise in the primary appears to be in the Democratic race for governor. J. B. Billard, mayor of Topeka, neither a progressive or a reactionary, but an avowed enemy of the prohibitory law seems to be ahead. He is far and away in the lead in all the big counties of the district and is running Hodges a close second in the counties in central Kansas where Hodges should have had an overwhelming majority.

Taft Has Allen County.

Iola, Kan., Aug. 7.—Unofficial returns from 15 of the 32 precincts of Allen county, including most of Iola, shows Curtis leads Stubbs for senator by 400 votes. Crider for congress is 200 in the lead. The Taft electors are 200 in the lead.

Progressives in Montgomery.

Independence, Kan., Aug. 7.—Montgomery county gave a majority for Curtis and Campbell. The Progressive electors are believed to have won.

Wilson Names Missourian.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 7.—Gov. Wilson announced the appointment of Rolla Wells, ex-mayor of St. Louis, Mo., to be treasurer of the national Democratic committee and Charles R. Crane of Chicago to be vice-chairman of the finance committee, of which Henry Morgenthau of New York has been chosen chairman.

Girl Tramp Arrested.

Denver, Aug. 7.—Ethel Huff, 16 years old, whose dress and general appearance was that of a handsome boy, was arrested in a box car in company with two young men, who gave their names as Henry Miller and R. A. Stanley. The trio said they came from Kansas City and had beaten their way to Denver on a freight train.

MISSOURI COUNT PROCEEDS SLOWLY

LIGHT VOTE ALL OVER THE STATE

St. Louis, Aug. 7.—Early and incomplete returns from the Missouri primaries indicate that John C. McKinley of Unionville has won the Republican nomination for governor. Leet W. Quick polled a heavy vote in St. Louis, but McKinley's country vote is large. A. Pat Murphy showed his greatest strength in southern Missouri.

Based on the same returns, William S. Cowherd of Kansas City appears to have won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Cowherd's vote in Kansas City and St. Louis will probably be large enough to offset Major's vote in the country. Dave Ball appears to be a bad third in the governor race.

Returns are coming in slowly, the long ballots making the work of the counting difficult.

Hiram Lloyd of St. Louis had no opposition for lieutenant governor on the Republican ticket.

Cornelius Roach for secretary of state and John P. Gordon for auditor on the Democratic ticket had no opposition.

St. Louis Slow.

St. Louis returns, owing to the long and complicated ballot, were even slower than usual. It was not until 5 o'clock that the first returns from the fifth precinct of the third ward were received.

Indications were that a total vote in St. Louis of 50,000, in a total registration of 127,000 in the city, had been cast. This was divided as follows: Republican, 50,000; Democratic, 30,000; Socialist, 10,000.

Unofficial estimates early in the evening were that Cowherd had carried the city over Major by a substantial majority.

Quick, for governor on the Republican ticket, was in the lead over McKinley and Murphy.

Partial returns from the smaller towns and rural districts of Missouri indicate that Major has been given a small majority over Cowherd. Honch in is probably third in the running. Beecher has a comfortable lead for congress from the third district.

The Republican vote was very light all over the state. McKinley has a safe lead in the race for governor.

Kansas City Incomplete.

Kansas City, Aug. 7.—Up to 3 o'clock in the morning only ten of the 33 precincts in the county outside of Kansas City had reported the results of the primary, and the full figures from the 264 precincts in Kansas City had not been completed.

Vote at Jefferson City.

Jefferson City, Aug. 7.—Following is the total vote of Jefferson City upon governor:

Democratic—Major 618, Honch 333, Cowherd 143, Bolte 53, Ball 3.

Suffragists Were Busy.

Thought it a Reorganization Plan.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Many came as delegates, especially from the Eastern states believing that the movement was intended only as a method to reorganize the Republican party and put it in the hands of the progressives.

NEGRO DELEGATES ARE TURNED DOWN

Progressives Adopted Report of Committee Without Debate.

GREAT CROWD HEARD ROOSEVELT

Chicago, Aug. 7.—The second day of the Progressive national convention opened with a well defined fight over the negro question vying for first interest with Col. Theodore Roosevelt's delivery of his "confession of faith" to his followers in the progressive cause.

Some of the delegates declared that the elimination of the Southern negro from participation in the formation of the new party had become the paramount issue of the convention. Eastern negroes joined with their brothers from the South in denunciation of certain things that occurred at an all-night meeting of the credentials committee, when the last of the Southern negro delegates was barred from the floor of the convention in a close vote.

Blacks Indignant.

The negroes were indignant, and excitedly volatile throughout the session of the committee, which began at 8 p. m. and continued until nearly daylight. The Mississippi contest was the last to be taken up and it was begun shortly after midnight.

The vote in the committee stood 17 to 16 against the negroes, those from Mississippi, and immediately Julius T. Mitchell of Rhode Island and other Eastern negroes joined in crying that the deciding ballot had been cast by a questionable proxy on the committee.

Fairly spattering indignation, the negroes announced they would carry the matter to Col. Roosevelt for a personal ruling on the point.

The vote on the Mississippi case came in a secret session of the committee at 3 in the morning, a few hours after both white and negro delegations from Florida had been barred.

Roosevelt Holds Reception.

The colonel had an impromptu reception during the enthusiastic noise making and was still broadly smiling his appreciation when Senator Beveridge introduced him. He began his speech at 1:48 o'clock.

Col. Roosevelt continually departed from his prepared speech, interpolating many side remarks and skipping over portions of the printed speech. He spoke somewhat slowly, with great emphasis and was constantly interrupted by applause and cheers.

There was no question of Roosevelt's happiness. His face radiated it and as he nodded to the blue uniformed G. A. R. drum corps as it came across the stage and ranged itself in a semi-circle about the speaker's stand.

Greets Confederate General.

Roosevelt grasped each of the veterans by the hand, shook it warmly and then, at his suggestion, they struck up a wild marching tune. The blare of the fife and the boom of the drum aided the enthusiasm and as the music died down Gen. McDowell of Tennessee, veteran of the Confederacy, passed forward and Roosevelt shook him warmly by the hand and patted him on the back.

The demonstration was the most remarkable yet tendered to Roosevelt during the present campaign. Not a person was in his seat, even the women and the galleries standing on their chairs to contribute to the undulating sea of color made by the waving handkerchiefs. From the rear of the stage many pressed forward to shake hands with the colonel.

Two negroes, wearing delegate badges, climbed to the stage. The critical negro question was in the minds of the crowd and as the colonel reached out a hand to each of the negroes, those around them fell back.

For a minute the three stood in a little knot. The colonel gesticulated and talked, the negroes listening, their faces serious. As the colonel concluded one of the negroes reached over and patted him on the shoulder. The three stood hand in hand and the crowd yelled. The negroes were delegates from West Virginia.

When Col. Roosevelt had left the Coliseum the business of the convention was resumed. The report of the credentials committee unsating the negro delegates from the South was considered.

The report of the committee on credentials was adopted without debate and without a dissenting voice.

Declares Coming Campaign Is Unusual
One and That Candidates Must Face Awakened Nation on

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 7.—Woodrow Wilson was today officially notified that he had been nominated by the Democratic party as their candidate for president. The speech of notification was delivered by Ollie James, chairman of the notification committee.

In reply Governor Wilson, after thanking the committee, commented on the unusual nature of the coming campaign in which the candidates must address an awakened nation, impatient of partisan make-believe and never more susceptible to unadvised appeals or to the high arguments of sincere justice. The forces of the nation, he said, are asserting themselves against every form of special privilege and private control, and are seeking bigger things than they have ever heretofore achieved.

Two Great Things to Do.
"How do we expect to handle each of the great matters that must be taken up by the next congress and the next administration?" said Mr. Wilson, and he answered his own query
as follows:

What is there to do? It is hard to sum the great task up, but apparently this is the sum of the matter: There are two great things to do. One is to set up the rule of justice and of right in such matters as the tariff, the regulation of the trusts and the prevention of monopoly, the adaptation of our banking and currency laws
to the varied uses to which our people must put them, the treatment of those who do the daily labor in our factories and mines throughout all our great industrial and commercial undertakings, and the political life of the people of the Philippines, for whom we hold governmental power in trust, for their service, not our own.
The other, the additional duty is the great task of protecting our people
open to the whole people the doors of
generation by generation, pass if they are to make conquest of their fortunes in health, in freedom, in peace, and in contentment. In the performance of this second great duty we are face to face with questions of conservation and of development, questions of forests and water powers and mines and water ways, of the building of an adequate merchant marine, and the opening of every highway and facility and the setting up of every safeguard needed by a great industrious, expanding nation.

These are all great matters upon which everybody should be heard.
We have got into trouble in recent years chiefly because these large things, which ought to have been handled by taking counsel with as large a number of persons as possible, because they touched every interest
and the life of every class and region, have in fact been too often handled in private conference. Our difficulty is not that wicked and designing men have plotted against us, but that our common affairs have been determined upon too narrow a view, and by too
get the forces of the whole people once more into play. We need no revolution; we need only a new point of view and a new method and spirit of counsel.

We are servants of the people, the whole people. The nation has been unnecessarily, unreasonably at war within itself. Interest has clashed with interest when there were common principles of right and of fair dealing which might and should have bound them all together, not as rivals, but as partners. As the servants of all, we are bound to undertake the great duty of accommodation and adjustment.

Revision of the Tariff.
Coming to the tariff question, the governor said the schedules "have been made up for the purpose of keeping as large a number as possible of the rich and influential manufacturers of the country in a good humor with the Republican party, which desired their constant financial support. The tariff has become a system of favors, which the phraseology of the schedule
conceal."

Reasserting the Democratic conviction that the only legitimate object of tariff duties is to raise revenue for the support of the government, he continued:

There should be an immediate revision, and it should be downward, unhesitatingly and steadily downward. It should begin with the schedules which have been most obviously used to kill competition and to raise prices in the United States, arbitrarily and without regard to the prices pertaining elsewhere in the markets of the world;
and it should, before it is finished or intermitted, be extended to every item in every schedule which affords any opportunity for monopoly, for special advantage to limited groups of beneficiaries, or for subsidized control of any kind in the markets or the enter-

favors of every sort have been absolutely withdrawn and every part of our
laws of taxation shall have been transformed from a system of government-at-patronage into a system of just and reasonable charges which shall fall where they will create the least burden. When we shall have done that, we can fit questions of revenue and of business adjustment in a new spirit and with clear minds. We shall then be partners with all the business men of the country, and a day of freer, more stable prosperity shall have dawned.

Control of the Trusts.
The governor spoke of how recent investigations have revealed the con-
movement of prices, and this brought him to the subject of trusts, concerning which he said in part:

I am not one of those who think that competition can be established by law against the drift of a worldwide economic tendency; neither am I one of those who believe that business done upon a great scale by a single organization—call it corpora-
dangerous to the liberties, even the economic liberties, of a great people like our own, full of intelligence and of indomitable energy. I am not
dare say we shall never return to the old order of individual competition, and that the organization of business upon a great scale of co-operation is, up to a certain point, itself normal and inevitable.

Power in the hands of great business men does not make me apprehensive, unless it springs out of advantages which they have not created for themselves. Big business is not dangerous because it is big, but because its bigness is an unwholesome infation created by privileges and exemptions which it ought not to enjoy.
While competition cannot be created by statutory enactment, it can in large measure be revived by changing the laws and forbidding the practices that killed it, and by enacting laws that will give it heart and occasion again.
We can arrest and prevent monopoly.
It has assumed new shapes and adopted new processes in our time, but these are now being disclosed and can be dealt with.

Concentration of Credit.
But the problem and the difficulty are much greater than that. There are not merely great trusts and com-
and deprived of their power to create monopolies and destroy rivals; there is something bigger still than they are and more subtle, more evasive, more difficult to deal with. There are vast confederacies (as I may perhaps call them for the sake of convenience)
of banks, railways, express companies, insurance companies, manufacturing corporations, mining corporations, power and development companies and all the rest of the circle, bound together by the fact that the ownership of their stock and the members of their boards of directors are controlled and determined by comparatively small and closely interrelated groups of persons who, by their informal confederacy, may control, if they please and when they will, both credit and enterprise.

There is nothing illegal about these confederacies, so far as I can perceive. They have come about very naturally, generally without plan or deliberation, rather because there was so much money to be invested
and it was in the hands, at great financial centers, of men acquainted with one another and intimately associated in business, than because anyone had conceived and was carrying out a plan of general control;
but they are none the less potent force in our economic and financial system on that account. They are part of our problem. Their very existence gives rise to the suspicion of a "money trust," a concentration of the control of credit which may at any time become infinitely dangerous to free enterprise. If such a concentration and control does not actually exist, it is evident that it can easily be
laws can be worked out by fair and free counsel that will accomplish that result without destroying or seriously embarrassing any sound or legiti-mate business undertaking or neces-

Question of Conservation.
Of conservation and allied matters
Governor Wilson said:

I do not know any greater question than that of conservation. We have been a spendthrift nation and must now husband what we have left. We must do more than that. We must develop, as well as preserve, our water powers and must add great waterways to the transportation facilities of the nation, to supplement the railways within our borders as well
seas again with our own fleets. We
service a parcels post as complete as that of any other nation. We must look to the health of our people upon
with justice and opportunity.

There are many sides to these great matters. Conservation is easy to generalize about, but hard to particularize about wisely. Reservation is not
of great states must not be stayed indefinitely to await a policy by which our forests and water powers can prudently be made use of. Use and development must go hand in hand.
The policy we adopt must be progressive, not negative, merely, as if we did not know what to do.

greater and more numerous water-

constructive lines and not fall back upon the cheap device of bounties and subsidies. In the case of the Mississippi river, that great central artery of our trade, it is plain that the federal government must build and main-
waters in harness for the general use.
It is plain, too, that vast sums of money must be spent to develop new
served and transportation most readily cheapened by them. Such expan-ditures are no largess on the part of the government; they are national investments.

Merchant Marine.

The question of a merchant marine turns back to this tariff again, to which all roads seem to lead, and to our registry laws, which, if coupled with the tariff, might almost be supposed to have been intended to take the American flag off the seas.
Bounties are not necessary, if you will but undo some of the things that have been done. Without a great merchant marine we cannot take our rightful place in the commerce of the world. Merchants who must depend upon the carriers of rival mercantile nations to carry their goods to market are at a disadvantage in international trade too manifest to need to be pointed out, and our merchants will not long suffer themselves—ought not to suffer themselves—to be placed at such a disadvantage. Our industries have expanded to such a point that they will burst their jackets, if they cannot find a free outlet to the markets of the world; and they cannot
ships of their own to carry their goods—ships that will go the routes they want them to go—and perfer the interests of America in their sailing orders and their equipment. Our domestic markets no longer suffice. We
force that is going to break the tariff down. The tariff was once a bulwark; now it is a dam. For trade is reciprocal; we cannot sell unless we also buy.

taken the Panama canal seriously in hand and are vigorously pushing it towards completion is eloquent of our re-awakened interest in international trade. We are not building the canal and pouring out millions upon millions
to establish a water connection between the two coasts of the continent,
view of naval defense. It is meant to be a great international highway. It would be a little ridiculous if we
to send through it. There have been years when not a single ton of freight passed through the great Suez canal in an American bottom, so empty are the seas of our ships and seamen.
We must mean to put an end to that kind of thing or we would not be cutting a new canal at our very doors merely for the use of our men-of-war.
We shall not manage the revival by the mere palsy device of tolls. We must build and buy ships in competition with the world. We can do it if we will but give ourselves leave.

Democratic party has shown itself great enough and close enough to the people to perceive, the duty of government to share in promoting agricultural, industrial, vocational education in every way possible within its constitutional powers. No other platform has given this intimate vision of a party's duty.

Free to Serve the People.

In concluding the governor said:
A presidential campaign may easily degenerate into a mere personal contest and so lose its real dignity and significance. There is no indispensable man. The government will not collapse and go to pieces if any one of the gentlemen who are seeking to be entrusted with its guidance should be left at home. But men are instruments. We are as important as the cause we represent, and in order to be important must really represent a cause. What is our cause? The people's cause? That is easy to say, but what does it mean? The common assessment against any particular interest whatsoever? Yes, but that, too, needs translation into acts and policies. We represent the desire to set up an unen-tangled government, a government that cannot be used for private purposes, either in the field of business or in the field of politics; a government
the personal aims and ambitions of any individual, and that will not permit legislation to be employed to further any private interest. It is a great conception, but I am free to serve it, as you also are. I could not have accepted a nomination which left me bound to any man or any group of men. No man can be just who is not free; and no man who has to show
responsibility of government in any
in the supreme post of president of the United States.

To be free it is not necessarily to be wise. But wisdom comes with counsel, with the frank and free conference of untrammelled men united in the common interest. Should I be entrusted with the great office of president, I would seek counsel where-ever it could be had upon free terms.
I know the temper of the great convention which nominated me; I know the temper of the country that lay back of that convention and spoke through it. I heed with deep thankfulness the message you bring me from it. I feel that I am surrounded by men whose principles and ambitions are those of true servants of the people. I thank God, and will take courage.

Granada, July 12, 1912.—At Alicante we had a lovely hotel with a balcony in front of our French windows and the sea just across the boulevard. We ate our meals outdoors on the sidewalk, in fact, under the portico. The hotels and restaurants build such porches and use the whole walk in summer. It is pleasant. You may have shoes blacked and purchase from peddlers while having a meal or some wine.

Everybody rested; at 3 we began again. The scenery had changed greatly. Outside of Alicante a few miles is a wonderful palm forest, where we purchased little baskets of dates dried. The trees extended for miles quite dense and in patches many more. They have a strange custom of tying the leaves up together, letting them remain so a year, then a priest blesses them and they are used for palm Sunday and put on the balconies or windows of the houses, where they are supposed to keep out illness and evil spirits.

We arrived at Merida at 8 o'clock and I had a ride in a real Spanish carriage, the round top kind, really awfully cute—driver sits up in front and people on the sides. At Valencia we saw crowds coming in town in these—some very nice and suit cases on the steps out behind. The inspector stopped us to see if we were importing any foodstuffs. That is their specialty and dutiable. At another place they looked for vegetables. Each town is so different from every other.

The trip from Alicante here was from 8:30 a. m. to 11:20 p. m. Quite a trip for this country. We rode to one station, then changed cars, and in four hours changed again. Had an English engine part of the way, so made some speed. Traveled third part of the trip and had lots of fun. We all had to walk across a bridge that were a little uncertain of. What do you think of that? There is lots of real desert back to barren old hills along the way, but some nice grape patches. Almost every house had a pet pig tied by the neck to a tree. The pig was long of nose and limb and sharp of back. When there were little ones they were tied to the goat's leg or the mother's, which in turn was attached to a tree.

We arrived here at Granada so late. It was a delightful carriage ride of two miles from the depot up to the top of this old fortress hill, for we are within the walls of the old fortified Alhambra and only a step to the building (palace), while the summer palace is a mile up by a beautiful path. The grove of elms, planted by Charles V, is cut by wide, nicely paved roads and falls of mountain streams, public fountains and circular stone platform, with seats for pedestrians as they go down the many steps.

Above the great old gate up here, once the only entrance to the city, is carved a hand, and within the arch a key. The legend is that when that hand grasps the key the Alhambra will fall. We spent most of yesterday afternoon in the Alhambra palace, that is the artists did. The rest of us came away to think it over. I was a little disappointed because it is not a ruin. The government, with assistance of entrance fees, is repairing it, and so excellently is the work done you cannot tell the new and the old apart, as the weather beaten color is also reproduced. It is not large and built like the Moorish palaces we have seen. The wonderful rich cream tracery that covers all walls and filigree on the arches, the slender alabaster pillars which support the arches all look whole and new. The floor shows the wearing of many feet, and it is hard to realize the dark deeds that have stained the marbles of this fairy palace. Just imagine, if you can, walls covered with designs cut in plaster, each design different from its

Today we had the picnic in the summer palace I mentioned above. There are lovely cloisters and most beautiful views of the city below, barren hills beyond and the snow capped Sierra Nevada's beyond. This surely is an artist's paradise, and we run onto such places all through Spain.

This afternoon we are going to the gypsy camp across on the other hill to witness their dancing and see their caves. It will be interesting. They are over here every day—women, to sell us brass pieces, so beautiful and cheap they are. Many of our party have bought large brass bowls and jars.

We start for Gibraltar tomorrow morning, arrive at night, and catch the "Moitke" again for Naples on Tuesday, July 15, per schedule. Will write again on the boat to mail at Naples. We make our shortest stop there. Am sorry to leave this delightfully cool spot for "sunny Italy."

BOOHER IS NOMINEE

The primary election in Nodaway county Tuesday was a rather tame affair. The total Democratic vote was about two hundred short of the vote of two years ago, and so many of the Republicans took to the brush that they hardly figured in the election. Many threshing machines were running and many votes were lost on that account. The vote two years ago was 2,335, and this year 2,124.

On the Democratic ticket Cowherd carried the county by 256 votes, with Majors a close second. The congressional race was close in the county. Booher winning by 72 votes. Returns from the Fourth congressional district indicate that he has been renominated by about 599 votes, carrying Atchison, Holt, Nodaway, Andrew and Platte counties. Martin carried St. Joseph and Buchanan county by a majority of 1,299.

W. J. Skidmore gets the nomination for representative. Ed Wallace wins for sheriff, Ed Wolfert for treasurer and Floyd Westfall for judge of the south district. The following other candidates, having no opposition, were nominated: George Pat Wright for prosecuting attorney, J. E. Reese for surveyor, Wm. M. Wallis, Jr., for coroner, and John F. Roelofson for public administrator.

For lieutenant governor, W. R. Painter carried the county by a vote of 1,176 to 897 for Alex. R. Boone.

Cornelius Roach's vote for secretary of state was 2,122.

For state treasurer, E. P. Deal carried the county by a vote of 1,084 to 869 for J. B. O'Meara.

vote stood: Robert F. Walker 851, H. C. Timmonds 774, Charles B. Paris, 629, and Thomas J. Delaney 579.

THE COUNTY COMMITTEE.

From the other townships in the county, the following is reported as the members of the Democratic committee: Monroe, D. R. Baker; Nodaway, S. S. Webb; Atchison, Guy Clary; Union, J. W. Wiley; Washington, D. C. McKee; White Cloud, Ed Busby; Lincoln, E. M. Bailey; Grant, Dr. J. A. Larabee; Jefferson, J. A. Billey; Hopkins, J. F. Babb; Jackson, Fay Casteele; Independence, Roy Fitzsimmons; Hughes, C. H. Talbott.

The county committee will meet in Maryville next Tuesday and organize.

Painter Nominated For Lieutenant Governor, With the Attorney Generalship Race Very Close.

From returns over the state, Wm. S. Cowherd of Kansas City is 19,000 ahead of Elliott W. Major, and is, no doubt, the nominee of the Democratic party for governor. Cowherd carried St. Louis by 17,752 and Kansas City by 12,809, and also St. Joseph. Major carried from fifty to seventy-five counties throughout the state.

Painter was nominated by the Democrats for lieutenant governor, and the Barker-McAllister race is very close, with McAllister apparently in the lead. James T. Bradshaw is in the lead for railroad and warehouse commissioner. Henry Bond, for division No. 1 of the supreme court, H. C. Timmonds and R. F. Walker for the two judges of division No. 2 of the supreme court, are also nominated. F. H. Trimble is in the lead for judge of the Kansas City court of appeals.

feeble beefsteak will never again

any other meat than it will be of beef.

once.

neatly markets make chicken grow-

ened Dynamite.

Harrisonville, Mo., Aug. 7.—Blood-
author of a letter sent to Fred Coe, cashier of the Bank of Creighton, a small town in the southeast part of
his house and kill him and his family," unless $4,500 was paid to the
on the case.

for bloodhounds to pick up the trail.
house constantly.

and Captured.

unhitched the horses, was confronted

himself and aroused the neighbors,
who found the men in the cornfield.
partner took.

MRS. HARSH IS DEAD

WAS 102 YEARS OLD THE 14TH OF JUNE LAST.

BURIAL AT CRESTON, IA.

Died in Hopkins Wednesday Morning at Home of Daughter—Funeral Thursday.

Mrs. Nancy Harsh of Hopkins, who celebrated her 102nd birthday anniversary on the 14th day of June last,
o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Donlin of Hopkins.

o'clock Thursday morning at Mrs.
ton, and burial there.

pany.

She was a remarkable woman in

power.

had been.

Hopkins.

Moved to Washington county, Penn-
1833. Moved to Ohio in 1826. Hus-
her family to Bureau county, Illinois,
moved to Creston, Ia., where she lived
Hopkins to live with her daughter, Mrs. Mary Donlin.

Early Returns Indicate Large Majority for T. R. Electors.

Bulletin.

Congressman—First district, J. B. Chapman, D., probably D. R. Anthony, R., second, Joseph Taggart, D., Republican in doubt; third, probably Phil Campbell, R.; fourth, F. S. Jackson, R.; fifth, R. R. Rees, R.; sixth, J. D. Young, R.; J. R. Connolly, D.; seventh, George A. Neely, D.; Finney, R., apparently nominated; eighth, Victor Murdock, R.; John I. Sanders, R.

The early returns from the primary indicated that the Roosevelt presidential electors had swept Kansas by as large a majority as was ever given any candidate in the state.

From every county came the reports during the night that the Roosevelt electors were in the lead and gaining at every county.

Stubbs Has Slight Lead.

The only apparently close fight in the Republican camp is between Curtis and Stubbs for United States senator. In the large cities the Curtis majority has been rolling up wonderfully, but as soon as the country precincts began to be heard from the Stubbs majority kept increasing until it easily overcame whatever gains Curtis had made.

Big Vote for Roosevelt.

The early indications show that the Roosevelt electors have been selected by upwards of 50,000 plurality and that the Progressive state ticket was gained by from 20,000 to 30,000 plurality.

Arthur Capper is the Republican nominee for governor over Frank Ryan, and his majority probably will be the highest of any of the candidates except the Roosevelt electors.

Counties that beat Stubbs went to Capper and the Roosevelt electors and for the rest of the Progressive ticket.

Campbell-Gray Contest Close.

The returns are very incomplete on the congressional candidates, except in the eighth district, where Murdock has run away from Adams. Stuart is running ahead of Anthony in the first district, and the Campbell-Gray contest in the third is so close that the friends of both candidates are in doubt.

No returns were received from the seventh district except from Pratt, which gave Finlay a lead and from Reno which gave Hopkins the advantage.

J. L. Brady appears to have been named in the Second district with John Crider a close second and Knight third.

Billard Leading Hodges.

The real surprise in the primary appears to be in the Democratic race for governor. J. B. Billard, mayor of Topeka, neither a progressive or a reactionary, but an avowed enemy of the prohibitory law seems to be ahead.

He is far and away in the lead in all the big counties of the district and is running Hodges a close second in the counties in central Kansas where Hodges should have had an overwhelming majority.

Taft Has Allen County.

Iola, Kan., Aug. 7.—Unofficial returns from 15 of the 32 precincts of Allen county, including most of Iola, shows Curtis leads Stubbs for senator by 400 votes. Crider for congress is 200 in the lead. The Taft electors are 200 in the lead.

Progressives in Montgomery.

Independence, Kan., Aug. 7.—Montgomery county gave a majority for Curtis and Campbell. The Progressive electors are believed to have won.

Wilson Names Missourian.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 7.—Gov. Wilson announced the appointment of Rolla Wells, ex-mayor of St. Louis, Mo., to be treasurer of the national Democratic committee and Charles R. Crane of Chicago to be vice-chairman of the finance committee, of which Henry Morgenthau of New York has been chosen chairman.

Girl Tramp Arrested.

Denver, Aug. 7.—Ethel Huff, 16 years old, whose dress and general appearance was that of a handsome boy, was arrested in a box car in company with two young men, who gave their names as Henry Miller and R. A. Stanley. The trio said they came from Kansas City and had beaten their way to Denver on a freight train.

St. Louis, Aug. 7.—Early and incomplete returns from the Missouri primaries indicate that John C. McKinley of Unionville has won the Republican nomination for governor. Leon W. Quick polled a heavy vote in St. Louis, but McKinley's country vote is large. A. Pat Murphy showed his greatest strength in southern Missouri.

Based on the same returns, William S. Cowherd of Kansas City appears to have won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Cowherd's vote in Kansas City and St. Louis will probably be large enough to offset Major's vote in the country. Dave Ball appears to be a bad third in the governor race.

Cornelius Roach for secretary of state and John F. Gordon for auditor on the Democratic ticket had no opposition.

St. Louis Slow.

St. Louis returns, owing to the long and complicated ballot, were even slower than usual. It was not until 9 o'clock that the first returns from the fifth precinct of the third ward were received.

Indications were that a total vote in St. Louis of 90,000, in a total registration of 137,000 in the city, had been cast. This was divided as follows: Republican, 50,000; Democratic, 30,000; Socialist, 10,000.

Unofficial estimates early in the evening were that Cowherd had carried the city over Major by a substantial majority.

Partial returns from the smaller towns and rural districts of Missouri indicate that Major has given a small majority over Cowherd. Houchin is probably third in the running.

Roach has a comfortable lead for congress from the third district.

The Republican vote was very light all over the state. McKinley has a safe lead in the race for governor.

Kansas City Incomplete.

Kansas City, Aug. 7.—Up to 3 o'clock in the morning only ten of the 33 precincts in the county outside of Kansas City had reported the results of the primary, and the full figures from the 204 precincts in Kansas City had not been completed.

Vote at Jefferson City.

Democratic—Major 618, Houchin 333, Cowherd 149, Bolte 13, Ball 3.

Suffragists Were Busy.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Women delegates were a center of interest in the convention. Many of their sisters in the suffrage movement gathered outside the Coliseum distributing tracts and emblems to the suffragette cause.

Thought it a Reorganization Plan. Chicago, Aug. 7.—Many came as delegates, especially from the Eastern states believing that the movement was intended only as a method to reorganize the Republican party and put it in the hands of the progressives.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—The second day of the Progressive national convention opened with a well defined fight over the negro question, with Col. Theodore Roosevelt's delivery of his "confession of faith" to his followers in the progressive cause.

Some of the delegates declared that the elimination of the Southern negro from participation in the formation of the new party had become the paramount issue of the convention. Eastern negroes joined with their brothers from the South in denunciation of certain things that occurred at an all-night meeting of the credentials committee, when the last of the Southern negro delegates was barred from the floor of the convention in a close vote.

Blacks Indignant.

The negroes were indignant, and excitedly visible throughout the session of the committee, which began at 8 p. m. and continued until nearly daylight. The Mississippi contest was the last to be taken up and it was begun shortly after midnight.

The vote in the committee stood 17 to 16 against the negroes, those from Mississippi, and immediately Julius T. Mitchell of Rhode Island and other Eastern negroes joined in crying that the deciding ballot had been cast by a questionable proxy on the committee.

Fairly spitting indignation, the negroes announced they would carry the matter to Col. Roosevelt for a personal ruling on the point.

The vote on the Mississippi case came in a secret session of the committee at 3 in the morning, a few hours after both white and negro delegations from Florida had been barred.

Roosevelt Holds Reception.

The colonel had an impromptu reception during the enthusiastic noise-making and was still broadly smiling his appreciation when Senator Beveridge introduced him. He began his speech at 1:48 o'clock.

Col. Roosevelt continually departed from his prepared speech, interpolating many side remarks and skipping over portions of the printed speech. He spoke somewhat slowly, with great emphasis and was constantly interrupted by applause and cheers.

There was no question of Roosevelt's happiness. His face radiated it and as he nodded to the blue and formed G. A. R. drum corps as it came across the stage and ranged itself in a semi-circle about the speaker's stand.

Greeted Confederate General.

Roosevelt grasped each of the veterans by the hand, shook it warmly and then, at his suggestion, they struck up a wild marching tune. The blast of the fife and the boom of the drum added the enthusiasm and as the march died down Gen. McDowell of Tennessee, veteran of the Confederacy, passed forward and Roosevelt shook him warmly by the hand and patted him on the back.

From the rear of the stage many pressed forward to shake hands with the colonel.

Shook Hands With Negro Delegates. Two negroes, wearing delegate badges, climbed to the stage. The critical negro question was in the minds of the crowd and as the colonel reached out a hand to each of the negroes, those around them fell back.

For a minute the three stood in a little knot. The colonel gesticulated and talked, the negroes listening, their faces serious. As the colonel concluded one of the negroes reached over and patted him on the shoulder. The three stood hand in hand and the crowd yelled. The negroes were delegates from West Virginia.

WILSON ACCEPTS THE NOMINATION

Is Told by Committee He Is Party's Choice for President.

tee.

never more susceptible to unselfish ap-
heretofore achieved.

Two Great Things to Do.

as follows:

are two great things to do. One is to set up the rule of justice and of
prevention of monopoly, the adapta-
this second great duty we are face to face with questions of conservation
needed by a great industrial, expanding nation.

which everybody should be heard.
revolution; we need no excited change; we need only a new point of
counsel.

justment.

Revision of the Tariff.

the rich and industrial manufacturers
tariff has become a system of favors,

continued:

There should be an immediate re-
where in the markets of the world;

al patronage into a system of just and
den. When we shall have done that,
dawned.

Control of the Trusts.

investigations have revealed the con-
ing which he said in part:

upon a great scale of co-operation is,
inevitable.

Power in the hands of great busi-
sive, unless it springs out of advan-
its bigness is an unwholesome inflation created by privileges and exemptions which it ought not to enjoy.
kill it, and by enacting laws that will give it heart and occasion again.
We can arrest and prevent monopoly.
It has assumed new shapes and adopt-
be dealt with.

Concentration of Credit.

But the problem and the difficulty
are and more subtle, more elusive, more difficult to deal with. There are
of banks, railways, express compa-
turing corporations, mining corporations, power and development companies and all the rest of the circle,
are controlled and determined by comparatively small and closely interrelated groups of persons who, by

ing out a plan of general control;
but they are none the less potent forces in our economic and financial
istence gives rise to the suspicion of a "money trust," a concentration of

Question of Conservation.

Governor Wilson said:

look to the health of our people upon
with justice and opportunity.

matters. Conservation is easy to generalize about, but hard to particu-
prudent be made use of. Use and development must go hand in hand.

waters in harness for the general use.
ily cheapened by them. Such expenditures are no largess on the part of
vestments.

Merchant Marine.

turns back to the tariff again, to
the American flag off the seas. Bounties are not necessary, if you
have expanded to such a point that
they want them to go—and protect the

tween the two coasts of the continent,
merely for the use of our own war.
the mere paltry device of tolls. We

people to perceive, the duty of government to share in promoting agricul-
party's duty.

In concluding the governor said:
significance. There is no indispensable
map. The government will not col-
ments. We are as important as the
sessment of any particular interest whatever? Yes, but that, too, needs translation into acts and policies. We represent the desire to set up an unen-tangled government, a government that cannot be used for private pur-
ther any private interest. It is free to serve it, as you also are. I could not
men. No man can be just who is not

ver it could be had upon free terms.
through it. I heard with deep thank-
courage.

AWAY GOES CATARRH.

Breathe Soothing, Healing Hyomei—Relief in Five Minutes.

Where there's catarrh there's thousands of catarrh germs. You can't get rid of catarrh unless you kill these germs.

You can't kill these germs with stomach medicine or sprays or douches because you can't get where they are.

You can kill these germs with HY-OMEI, a penetrating antiseptic air that you breathe a few times a day directly over the raw, sore, germ infested membrane.

For catarrh, asthma, croup, coughs, colds and catarrhal deafness HYOMEI is sold on money back plan by the Orear-Henry Drug Co. Complete outfit $1.00. Extra bottles of HYOMEI if afterward needed only 50 cents. Remember HYOMEI does not contain morphine, cocaine or any drug that could possibly do harm.
